

I have on several occasions been unable to make a connection to people owning vp since these equipment were from other companies. It was frustrating trying to make connections only to get a black box blocking access. I had expressed my concern to the company that provided my webcam. They kept saying I should be able to get through but it is not true. I am still having problems with certain connections.